FOR A BETTER INDIANA POULTRY INDUSTRY

The Farm Bureau Cooperative hatchery program is dedicated to the improvement of the poultry industry in the state. By encouraging the production of uniformly high quality poultry products, and by furnishing chicks that have the basic ability to produce profits for the farmer, this cooperative works to win for the farmers of Indiana their fair share of the national poultry market.

To accomplish this, the 35 Farm Bureau Hatcheries follow:

- a strict blood testing program for the control of pullorum disease.
- a rigid inspection of all supply flocks to eliminate paralysis infection.
- a breed improvement program on 3 key breeding farms to step up the potential egg laying ability of our strains.

For information on the 15 years results of this cooperative program, write

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

A new type blood-testing table, leaves legs free for handling. Folds flat for transportation. Impossible for birds to get loose, a fine unit for vaccinating work as well as blood-testing.

Patent Pending.
