

The Indiana Poultry Blue Book and Buyers Guide

The Official Year Book of the State Poultry Association of Indiana, Inc.
Founded in 1918

M. V. Fluck, Editor

L. A. Wilhelm, Business Mgr.

Cover Page Photo courtesy of Luck Magazine

EDUCATIONAL FEATURES

Looking Ahead with the Poultry Industry.....	8
Newcastle Disease.....	11
Purdue Poultry Short Course and Hatchery School.....	16
The DeMarva Broiler Industry.....	18
Individual Members.....	20
The State Poultry Association.....	26
Airview Sight of New Poultry Farm.....	30
4-H Poultry and Egg Judging Contest.....	40
19 Years of Pedigreed Poultry Improvement.....	42
First Year of Chicken-of-Tomorrow Contest.....	44
"Germicidal Lamps".....	46
Listing of Indiana Hatcherymen by Towns.....	50
Turkey Plan in Indiana.....	64
Let's Talk Turkey.....	66
Turkey Experiments at Purdue.....	72
The National Plan in Indiana.....	78
National Plan Participation.....	82

For the Index of Advertisers see Page 105

The State Poultry Association of Indiana, Inc., a non-profit corporation, is the coordinating organization serving the Hoosier Poultry Industry. Through its Baby Chick Department, the R. O. F. Department and the Turkey Department, it serves as a clearing house for problems affecting farm flockowners, market egg producers, hatchery flockowners, poultry breeders, hatchery operators, broiler producers, turkey growers, veterinarians and feed and equipment manufacturers—anyone interested in any phase of the Indiana Poultry Industry.

CONCENTRATE ON CONCENTRATES

There is a Master Mix Concentrate to meet your particular needs—which, when mixed with grains and grain by-products according to Master Mix formula recommendations, makes a ration fully adequate to produce most economical results. Ask your Master Mix Dealer for mixing formulas and specific feeding directions. He is in a position to serve you.

McMILLEN FEED MILLS

Division of
CENTRAL SOYA CO., INC.

Fort Wayne, Ind.