Poultry Building, Purdue University. The heart of Indiana's 240 Million Dollar Poultry Industry.

This is the home of the State Poultry Association of Indiana, the official state agency for administering the National Poultry Inspection Plan in Indiana.

This building was erected in 1924-25 with the proceeds of a bond issue authorized in 1927 as the result of a special appropriation by the Indiana Legislature.

SPEEDY GROWTH

from

ON THE PURINA PROGRAM

Every farmer who owns chickens knows the advantage of speeding his birds to the nest . . . lowers the cost of preparing the pullets . . . saves time . . . and often results in additional profit. Yet, how many farmers are on a program planned to accomplish this? Do you have a working plan? If not, try the method used by many of our country's leading poultry raisers . . . the Purina Program.

No feed alone can give you the best results if one of your other program phases—Breeding, Management or Nutrition—is neglected. On the other hand, good Breeding, sound management, and careful Nutrition may not better your results—unless you have the right feed.

Choose a food of national reputation. A feed which has a proven program designed to give farmers top results.

See your Purina dealer for poultry feeds and supplies today.
